

Get Ready for ASNR 2023!

Are you prepared to make the most of your experience at ASNR's annual conference this year? We are looking forward to a fantastic few days of meeting new people, reconnecting with colleagues, learning from our expert presenters, and engaging in stimulating conversations in the historic city of Charleston, SC.

Our Annual Meeting brings together neurorehabilitation clinicians, basic scientists, industry representatives, and funders in a friendly and dynamic environment. In addition, we are excited to welcome people with the neurological impairments our society seeks to address. These individuals are at the very core of our mission, and we look forward to the insightful discussions they will stimulate during the opening reception and poster sessions.

"I love ASNR meetings because of the science & because we can engage as a group about the big questions & challenges that we face as a field," remarked Dr. Jason Carmel, ASNR Program Chair.

As a single-track conference focusing on neurorehabilitation, you will be able to attend all conference sessions with your fellow attendees. Our scientific program includes roundtable discussions, educational programming, symposia, and poster sessions. All sessions this year will address methods and concepts applicable across many neurological diseases, and our symposia topics cover different neural systems and research methods.

In addition, there are many opportunities for interactions and networking between attendees, including our opening reception, breaks, meals, and optional offsite events. Our first offsite event of the meeting is a ticketed reception with a boat tour of Charleston on Wednesday night.

On Thursday, we encourage you to join us after the onsite conference program for a tour of the Old Slave Mart. This tour is an important reminder that the city of Charleston was the major port of entry for many enslaved people entering the United States, and we hope that visiting this historic site can stimulate important reflections and conversations about diversity, equity, and inclusion.

If you have questions before the conference, you can reach the ASNR team by emailing us at info@asnr.com. ASNR leadership will also be wearing "Ask Me" buttons throughout the Annual Meeting, so feel free to approach us with any questions or comments, or just to say hello! We can't wait to see you all in Charleston March 14-16th for ASNR 2023!
